

Additional responses received through emails:

Email 1:

Quick feedback on the finding itself: the `ItemInList` pattern is correctly detected, but in this case it's in test code and the list is tiny and static, so it's a true-positive-but-immaterial result. For maintainers, a useful signal would be filtering or down-ranking findings located in test files, or estimating the actual list size at runtime, since that's what separates a real hot-path issue from noise like this one.